

Q Julia Bishop (researcher)
Q2 Beth Nutbrown (researcher)
A Susan (mum)
B Craig (dad)
C Alison (6)
D Chloe (4)

A ....picture yesterday. Chloe, what was that picture that you drew daddy yesterday?

D A ??? bike and a giraffe ???

A That was for me. What did you do for daddy?

D ???

A There was a pig.

B Pig with an earphone.

A And what was he wearing?

D Earphones.

Q Brilliant.

B Dead crocodile on one side, with the words 'dead' and 'dad' on there! Yeah, and on the other side there was a pig wearing headphones.

A He did look a bit sad because I got this beautiful giraffe that was a brilliant picture.

B It was on fire as well I think.

A And then he just got this. 'Dead dad' which concerned him a bit. And he was like 'can you tell me what this is quickly'.

B Yeah. I could make out the dead crocodile at the bottom – obviously!

Q What brought that on do you think?

B I dread to think.

Q Thank you. And then we've left you the play diaries.

A Oh no that's the pig one, hang on. I also had....I had a leopard, and he had the crocodile! That's the other side.

B I mean I'll save that for when it comes to therapy in later life!

A But yeah anything that was in the car.

B They can see the destination.

A Yeah they saw the....for one second. Because as I turned the corner you could see the rest of the journey, and they were like 'we're nearly there, I saw the red dot'.

Q Yeah we'll perhaps talk to you some more about that another time. And do a bit more of the tour upstairs would be grand as well. And if they'd like to use more GoPro, again, if again you know even if it's just like catching sort of the films or if they're doing a bit of interactive stuff, that would be great.
