

Dear students

We would like you to take part in a research study investigating how people engage with coding and inform future developments in how coding is taught in a physics degree. You can also enter a prize draw for a chance to win one of ten £15 Amazon vouchers.

Participation is via an online survey that should take approximately 15 minutes to complete. All responses are anonymous. For further information, a copy of the participant information sheet, and to take part in the study, please click on the following link:

This study has been approved by the Physics & Astronomy ethics committee at the University of Sheffield. You may withdraw at any time by leaving the survey.

Many thanks for your help.

YOUR NAME

and

Dr Matt Mears
Lead investigator
Department of Physics and Astronomy
The University of Sheffield